Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. has presented an innovation in antiquities and numismatics for some time now. The system is simple. When you want an antiquity or coin in the sale, just bid the estimated price by phone or mail. We will send you the antiquity or coin immediately. No waiting for the closing of the sale. Any and all antiquities or coins not sold before the closing date will be sent to the highest bidder on April 2, 2003.

EXAMPLE—You bid estimate on an item valued at $100.00 and if your bid is the 1st to reach us, you will receive the item immediately. If on the other hand, you bid $75.00 on the same item and are still the high bidder at the end of the sale, the item will be mailed to you on the closing date, April 2, 2003.

If you are ever in the area, stop in to see us! Of course, it's best to call first. Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. reserves the right to refuse any ridiculous bids.

Decadrachms of Kimon are much rarer than those of Euainetus. A signed Kimon is a rare prize for any collector but especially for this type (signature on apex) and at this estimate. Corrosion on the reverse edge from 1:00 to 3:00. Struck in high relief. VF/About EF 23750
54. SICILY, SYRACUSE; Decadrachm Signed by "EUAINETUS", 400 BC, 41.96g., Gallatin C.XV/R.IV. Very rare full signature. Signed decadrachms by Euainetus are extremely popular. Normally only a few parts of letters of the signature are visible because of the signature's placement at the bottom of the reverse. The fact that this coin is slightly off center allows this very unusual circumstance to take place (a complete signature). The obverse is nicely centered. This is a highly desirable decadrachm. VF 14000
55. SICILY, SYRACUSE; Decadrachm by Euainetus, 400 BC, 42.32g., Gallatin F.VIIa/R.XIV (18 specimens recorded). Unsigned scallop shell type. Some of the pleasant dies of the decadrachms of Euainetus are the unsigned ones with the scallop shell symbol. This coin is beautifully centered showing all four dolphins and on the obverse the complete quadriga and the Nike crowning the driver. Some dings on Arethusa's face. Nice toning. About VF/VF 8500

About seven recorded with this helmet symbol in obverse field. Obv: Horse standing r.; behind youth standing r., wearing petasos and holding two spears. To r., Corinthian helmet, Rx: Quadripartite incuse square. In the late sixth century and early fifth century B.C., several Thracian tribes and the Greek city of Abdera in Thrace struck enormous silver octadrachms, eight-drachm coins. The most prominent of the tribes was the Bisalti, who lived to the west of the lower Strymon river in Thrace. The grouping of these coins which came into the market some years ago has mostly been absorbed by collectors and museums. Within a short period of time the true rarity of these coins will be again reflected by the lack of market availability. EF 6250

118. PTOLEMAIC KINGDOM, BERENICE II; Dodecadrachm, 246/5 BC, 53.13g. The dodecadrachms of Berenice are, with the exception of a single Bactrian issue, the largest silver coins ever produced by the Greeks. The obv shows a veiled portrait of Queen Berenice, while the Rx has a cornucopia with a laurel-wreathed Dioscuri cap on either side of it, and the legend Queen Berenice. These coins were either issued when Berenice was ruling the country at the time that her husband was fighting wars outside of the country or they were minted as part of a marriage dowry. Of the dodecadrachms that have come to light in several years, this is certainly an excellent example. Unlike many examples of this issue, this coin is not corroded at all. Most have incomplete wreaths across the Dioscuri caps. This specimen has complete wreaths. All but two have significant flan cracks. This has only a small one at 10:00. There is also a minor planchet flaw in the upper right obverse field. This is a very important Hellenistic portrait and the coin itself is very important in Hellenistic history. The only other queen to be portrayed in this fashion is Cleopatra VII. Near Mint State..... 25000

255. A. PLAUTIVS; Denarius, Rome, 55 BC, 4.19g., Syd-932, Cr-431/1, Plautia-13. Obv: Turreted head of Cybele r. Rx: Bacchus (Aristobulus?) kneels r., camel at side, extending olive branch. "Baccius" is unknown to history, and the identity of the kneeling figure on the reverse has been subject to considerable controversy. The scene evidently refers to the submission of Aristobulus the High Priest to Pompey; the alternative explanation, that Bacchus refers to Dionysus of Tripoli (mentioned in Josephus), derives solely from the similarity between the Greek Dionysus and the Latin Bacchus, and seems implausible. Numerous banker's marks and scratches. Fine 125

Rx: Curule chair; PATRE COS above, scepter and diadem below, S C on either side. The reverse legend PATRE COS, meaning "in the consulship of my father," affords an unusually vivid glimpse at the nepotism typical of the late Republic. It also provides a rare precise date for a Republican coin, if only the consul in question can be identified. There are three possibilities, whose year in office ranged from 61 to 31 BC. The consensus, for divergent reasons, is that the father of MESSAL F is Messala Rufus, consul in 53 BC. Fascinating and quite rare (R7 in Sydenham). VF 750

- Exceedingly rare. Almost all of the famous dynastic denarii of Septimius Severus' reign were struck in 201-2 AD, when Caracalla and Geta were still little boys. Our coin and BM-507A, however, show the "head-only" bust type of Caracalla which was not introduced until 206, and have unbearded, adolescent portraits of the junior emperor which must date to c. 207. On both coins Caracalla seems to occupy the obverse and Julia Domna the reverse, rather than vice versa. The number of surviving dynastic denarii that like these two were struck after the end of the main issue in 202, may be counted on the fingers of one hand. Good VF/About VF 1500
395. CARACALLA; 198-217 AD, Denarius, Rome, 208 AD, 2.87g., CNG 36, 1995, lot 2437 (same dies), otherwise unpublished. Obv: ANTONINVS PIVS AVG Head laureate r. Rx: PONTIF TR P XI COS III Large head of Medusa facing, turned slightly to r., with wings and long tousled hair, two snakes join to form neck-band below her chin. This reverse type and its companion showing a smaller head of Medusa on an aegis usually bear the legend PROVIDENTIA. These types have been assumed to belong to 207 AD, since some of the denarii that bear them are die-linked to coins dated to that year and since an aureus of Severus with the large Medusa head type of our coin itself bears the dated legend of that year, P M TR P XV COS III P P. Our denarius of Caracalla proves for the first time that the type was also used in 208, presumably at the beginning of the year. Extremely rare, only the second recorded specimen. The CNG discovery coin, only a little better than ours, sold for $6037.50 ($5250+15%). Flan exhibits minor granularity. VF/EF. A spectacular type 3750

In the background, a statue of Minerva holding owl and spear before a wall or building divided into oblong panels. Rare. Although it was only commemorated on the coins from 64 AD on, Nero had distributed his second largesse some years earlier, in 57 AD. The tablet held by the first official, misnamed a tessera or abacus in the standard catalogues, was actually a board drilled with a determined number of shallow depressions just large enough to hold one denarius each, which could rapidly be filled with coins and then emptied into the toga of the recipient. Rx: Tyche standing l. holding scepter and cornucopia, heifer stands beside her, swastika-like symbol in r. field, Greek inscription "Gaza, Year 2 after the visit". The reverse inscription is an interesting reference to the new era that Gaza instituted when Hadrian visited the city in 130 AD. Fine 275

531. COMMODUS; 177-192 AD, AE 41 Medallion, Troas, Assus, 42.77g., Kraft, Kaiserzeitliche Muenzpraegung in Kleinasien, pl. 88.14c (BM). Obv: Bust laureate, draped, and cuirassed r., seen from front. Rx: Commodus holding up branch in triumphal quadriga l., preceded by figure of Roma or Virtus, trophy and two captives on platform behind. Along the rim from 12 o'clock to 4:30, the last letter being upside down in the exergue, the end of a legend probably naming a magistrate. Very rare, probably only the third known specimen. The BM specimen illustrated by Kraft is poor, showing for example none of the circular legend on the reverse, eight letters of which survive on our specimen. Volker Heuchert of Oxford, who is working on the RPC volume for Marcus Aurelius and Commodus, kindly informs us that another specimen of this medallion, in St. Petersburg, is published and illustrated in Zeitschrift fuer Num. 36, 1926, p. 69. Doubtless one of the largest and most impressive coins in the small output of this city under the Roman empire. As Kraft points out, pl. 88.14a-b, the same obverse die was also used to strike medallions for Pergamum and Mytilene, and that Mytilene medallion uses the same reverse type of Commodus in triumphal quadriga as our Assus piece. Fine 1350

532. SEPTIMIUS SEVERUS; 193-211 AD, AE 45 Medallion, Mysia, Hadrianothera, 41.19g., AMNG-574. Obv: Bust laureate, draped and cuirassed r. Rx: Emperor in military dress standing r., head l., holding spear in l. hand and crowning trophy with r. hand, two captives seated on shields at base of trophy, on l. a naked female in attitude of mourning and on r. a male with hands bound behind back. Very rare, apparently only the third known specimen. A coin just like ours was in the Turin collection ex Arigoni, Pisani, and Correr, but could not be located in Turin by von Fritze in 1903. A second specimen with variant obverse legend and a different reverse die was in the stock of Rollin and Feuardent in 1905 and is published by von Fritze, AMNG-574, with an illustration of the reverse, pl. IX.27 (in poor condition). VF 2500

NOME COINAGE

The Roman Egyptian nomes were governmental districts like countries or parishes who had the right to issue coinage in their name. It was through that coins were struck in those areas, but now current thought is that they were all struck in Alexandria. I believe because of the unusual nature of the deities that the themes or compositions were dictated by the individual nomes. An example of this is the Trajan xoites nome Lot 598 which shows as Harpocrates holding a urea (cobra) wearing a solar disk.

597. DOMITIAN; 81-96 AD, Upper Sebennyte Nome, Egypt, Alexandria, Year 4, 10.66g., BMC-N56ari, Datt-6376. Obv: Domitian, Rx: Ares standing, stag by feet. VG..... 1500

598. TRAJAN, XOITES NOME; 98-117 AD, Drachm, Egypt, Alexandria, Year 13=109/10 AD, 25.15g., Milne-, Datt-, Emmett- Apparently unique. Obv: Head of Trajan r. Rx: Deity stg. l., wearing headdress of disk and horns, leaning on staff; uraeus coiled around r. arm; around, [X]OI THC. This coin was published by Col. Curtis in "The Coinage of Roman Egypt: A Survey," The Numismatist, Jan.-Aug., 1956, pg. 61, pl. XLIV. Curtis there attributed it to the Ombite Nome, but the reassignment of the piece to Xoites is surely correct. His description of the standing figure on the reverse as Harpocrates is also doubtful, but a recent suggestion of Subek (the Crocodile God) instead is no more persuasive, as the figure clearly is holding a snake. The horn and disk headdress is often associated with Isis, but even the gender of the syncretistic diety depicted here remains uncertain. About EF..... 3000

The pouring of libation often accompanied bloody sacrifices, but libations were also made independent of other sacrifices, as in solomn prayers and in many other occasions in public and private life. Libations were usually in the form of unmixed wine, but to certain deities, such as the Nymphs, Aphrodite, and the Furies, only sober libations were allowed, so libations of water, oil, milk or honey were made. Saint Thecla is one of the most ancient, as she is one of the most illustrious Saints in the calendar of the Church. It was at Iconium that Saint Thecla heard the preaching of Saint Paul, who kindled the love of virginity in her heart. She had been promised in marriage to a young man who was rich and generous, but after hearing the discourses of the Apostle's word she died to all thought of earthly espousals. She forgot her beauty; she was deaf to her parent's threats, and at the first opportunity fled from a luxurious home and followed the Apostle. The rage of her parents and of her suitor followed hard after her, and the Roman power did its worst against the virgín whom Christ had chosen for Himself. She was stripped and placed in the public theater, but her innocence shrouded her like a garment. Then the lions were let loose against her; they fell crouching at her feet and licked them like a house pet. Even fire could not harm her. Torment after torment was inflicted upon her without effect, until finally the divine Spouse of virgins spoke the word of deliverance and called her to Himself, with the double crown of martyrdom and virginity upon her head. 711. GANDHARAN GRAY SCHIST FIGURE OF SEATED BODHISATTVA, c. 2nd to 3rd Century A.D. Finely carved seated in dhyanasana with his right arm raised in abhaya mudra, a gesture of protection, and his left holding the bottle containing the elixir of immortality, wearing a typically Gandharan pleated dhoti, his face with a benign expression, heavily lidded eyes, a mustache and strands of hair ending in curls framing the face. A bodhisattva is an intermediary being who attains a Buddha's moral merit but postpones entry into Nirvana to help all sentient beings. Bodhisattvas become more immediate and accessible figures in the popular religion of Northern Buddhism. Located near the upper reaches of the Indus river, Gandhara straddles present day Afghanistan and Pakistan. The infamous Taliban regime thoughtlessly destroyed much Gandharan art recently. Gandharan art plays a crucial role in the historical development of the Buddha image. As inheritors of the artistic traditions of Alexander the Great's Indian kingdoms and located on the cosmopolitan Silk route, Gandharan artists employed Greek models to attempt among the first artistic representations of the Buddha and Bodhisattvas. For nearly the first 500 years of Buddhist art, the Buddha appears only as a symbol intimating his accomplishment. Early Buddhist artists reasoned that it was impossible to represent an enlightened figure because of the profoundly transcendent meaning of Enlightenment itself. The temptation of Hellenistic Greek art, however, proved too much. Forming the Greco-Buddhist school of art, Gandharan artists helped begin the search for the aesthetic image of Enlightenment. Thus, the first Buddhist images of Gandhara have a strongly Hellenistic feel. They possess muscular, masculine bodies with the flowing pleated robes of a Greek God. They have "Western" faces complete with deeply carved features and Aquiline noses. The transcendent faces and genderless bodies of later Buddhist art are still several hundred years away. This present example comes from an old collection. Gandharan figures such as this are rare. Mounted on base H. 10 1/4" 2500
712. THAILAND BRONZE BUDDHA HEAD, c. 16th to 18th Century A.D. From the Ayudhya Empire of Thailand. This is an excellent example of Thai art. This head piece probably once set into a bronze adorned Buddha figure.
